ARLU, OPENING DOORS IN OFFICES

ARLU[®]
OPENING DOORS

ARLU® GIVES OFFICES A SLEEK AND INVITING LOOK & FEEL.

In office architecture, it's about more than aesthetics. The layout and finish of spaces influence how people work and collaborate. In meeting rooms, workstations, and quiet zones, it's important to define boundaries without losing the open character.

Arlu offers solutions that support this balance: glass partitions that block sound without obstructing views, or door fittings that blend seamlessly into the design. Every element contributes to a workspace that remains clear and functional.

DIVINA

Silent elegance for thoughtful office architecture

Divina evokes a workspace where tranquillity is tangible. Large glass walls divide the space without interrupting it. Fixed walls, hinged doors, pivot doors, and sliding doors in aluminium steel-look form a sleek, continuous whole. Slim profiles create a visual line that runs from floor to ceiling. The technology stays in the background. Doors move quietly and smoothly, with no visible guides or distracting details. Everything is designed to follow the architecture: fixed walls and doors align seamlessly.

Glass also plays an active role in the design. By choosing from various types, transparent, frosted or laminated, you can adjust light and privacy to suit each space.

With a load capacity of up to 100 kg and consistently reliable performance, Divina fits effortlessly into any office layout, from open landscapes to more enclosed work zones.

INVISIDOOR

For offices that radiate calm and simplicity

Invisidoor sets a new benchmark in spatial refinement for office interiors. Thanks to its invisible aluminium frame, the door disappears entirely into the wall, creating a sleek and serene interior. Ideal for meeting rooms, offices or workspaces where design and tranquillity are key.

The system is designed for efficiency: Invisidoor is quick and flexible to install, suitable for both new builds and renovations, and fits any type of wall or doorway. Its robust construction prevents cracks in plasterwork and ensures a durable, low-maintenance finish, essential in busy office environments. Invisidoor brings simplicity and calm to the workplace.

PUNCH

Architectural transparency in meeting rooms

For office spaces that require sliding glass doors, for example, where swing space is limited, Punch is the solution. Ideal for meeting rooms that need to be enclosed without sacrificing visual connection.

The glass doors slide quietly between floor and ceiling, with no visible hardware to interrupt the design. The technology is fully integrated, giving the space a clean and organised look. Soft damping ensures the doors open and close almost silently, a valuable feature in quiet work zones.

Punch blends effortlessly into the interior while adding subtle refinement. With finishes in stainless steel look, black or grey a nodised aluminium, the system suits a variety of office concepts.

SPRINT

Storage with a silent smile

In a sleekly designed office, every detail counts. Sprint is furniture hardware that integrates discreetly into cabinet walls, with no visible rails or distracting elements. Cabinet doors open and close quietly, as if they're part of the wall itself.

All the technology is cleverly concealed in the top profile: rollers, stoppers and an invisible soft-close mechanism ensure smooth and controlled movement. A fine lower guide supports the doors without visual impact. Sprint is often used in offices or meeting rooms where storage space is essential.

The result is a cabinet that brings calm to the space. No distractions, no unnecessary details, just a clean finish that suits an office where discretion and refinement matter, even behind closed doors.
